DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Wu et al. (2005/0159940).

As to claim 1, Wu teaches a method for compressing an audio signal, comprising the steps of:

Receiving a frame of audio signal, consisted of overlapped windows;

For weak signal component,

Formatting an input audio into a plurality of time domain signals;

Frequency transforming the time domain audio signal;

Inverse transforming part of the audio signal to obtain a time domain signal; and Quantizing/compressing the time domain signal (losslessly) (abstract; pars.0015, 0058-0059).

As to claims 2-3, Wu teaches using non rectangular shaped window (par.0070).

"A window function is created during audio codec initialization to have the following properties: (1) at the center region of $N_s - s_{HB.sub.E} + s_{HB.sub.D}$ samples in size, the window function equals unity (i.e., the identity function); and (2) the remaining equally divided left and right edges typically equate to the left and right half of a bell-shape curve, respectively. A typical candidate bell-shape curve could be a Hamming or Kaiser-Bessel window function. This window function is then applied on the analysis frame samples. The analysis history buffer (HB.sub.E) is then updated by the last SHB.sub.E samples from the current analysis frame. This completes the boundary analysis.”

Claims 4-14 are analogous to claims 1-3 and are rejected by Wu for the foregoing reasons.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Zandi et al. (6,219,458).

Zandi teaches a method for a unified lossy/lossless compression of an image signal comprising encoding an input signal using lossy coding, Conducting forward overlapped transform on an input signal, Conducting inverse transform; and Lossless Compressing the reversed signal (Figs. 21-23; abstract; Col.5, line 56-Col.6, line 20).
